Even if you don't know your grandparents' names, where your ancestors originated, or if their town was destroyed in the Holocaust, you can trace your Jewish roots.

Join Jewish Genealogical Society of Illinois (JGSI) to

- learn at monthly meetings that feature expert lecturers
- participate in monthly mini-workshops on specialized topics
- research in our library which contains over 800 reference works
- receive Morasha, our journal on Jewish genealogy
- access JGSI's Chicago Jewish databases
- receive monthly electronic meeting reminders and latest research updates
- network and share with other genealogists in "members helping members" discussions

If you are a beginner and need help, members can assist you.

JGSI welcomes guests to its monthly Sunday meetings.

DO YOU KNOW WHO YOUR ANCESTORS WERE?

Will your great-grandchildren know their legacy—their roots?

Genealogical research is not just names and dates. It is learning about the lives of those who came before us.

Learn how to trace your roots and build your family tree

- Even if you don't know your ancestors' names or homelands
- Even if their towns were destroyed
